Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-61, 63-74, 77, 78 and 80-96 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-31, 50-61, 63-74, 77, 78, and 80-86 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because independent claims 1, 14, 16 and 17 recite a method and a system, respectively. These claims appear to include a judicial exception, namely an abstract idea. Note that the method steps recited in claim 1 and the system of claim 1 are disclosed by the specification, and claimed as performing computer instructions. Since there are no practical applications claimed, i.e., no physical transformations taken place, nor a useful, concrete and tangible result being produced, the claims are non-statutory. Claim 2-31 and 51-61, 63-74, 77, 78 depend on claims 1 and 50 respectively therefore, claims 2-31 and 51-61, 63-74, 77, 78 are rejected for the same reason that claims 1 and 50 are rejected.

Claims 32-49 and 93-96 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Regarding independent claim 32, Applicant is claiming a packet/data structure, but Applicant fails to indicate an operation or function that is being implemented through the detailed description of the packet content. In other words, Applicant is just providing descriptive material that is non-functional, and storing it on a computer program storage medium. Claim 33-49, depend on claim 32 therefore, claims 33-49 are rejected for the same reason that claim 32 is rejected.

Regarding claim 93, Applicant is claiming a device that transmits content information and stores it on a computer, but Applicant fails to indicate an operation or function that is being implemented through the detailed description of the content information. In other words, Applicant is just providing descriptive material that is non-functional, and storing it on a computer program storage medium. Claim 94-96, depend on claim 33 therefore, claims 94-96 are rejected for the same reason that claim 93 is rejected.

Claim 81 recites a computer readable medium embodying a method while the method does not define any structural and functional interrelationships between the method and the computer. Note that the claim does not recite the computer readable medium being encoded with compiler executable instructions or computer program or computer software.

Claim 82-86, depend on claims 81 therefore, claims 82-86 are rejected for the same reason that claim 81 is rejected

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 3. Claims 93-96 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
- The term "operable" in independent claim 93 makes the limitations following it to be optional, which renders the meads and bounds of the claim to be indefinite. Claims 94-96 depend on claim 4; therefore, claims 94-96 are rejected for the same reason.

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 87-92 are allowed over prior art.

2. The following is a statement of reasons for allowance:

3. The prior art fail to teach or suggest fairly with respect to claim 81, automatically transmit packet-based billing data on a per-content basis by logging the amount of data received with an identifier of the content, transmitting logged amount of data with identifier of the content to a server to be accumulated.
